

Rwanda

Estimated population 9 million

Rwanda came to the attention of the international community during the genocide of 1994 when over 800,000 people lost their lives. It is an extremely densely-populated country in which malnutrition is a serious problem. A period of nominal German occupation ended after the First World War to be succeeded by more hands-on rule from Belgium the colonial power in the neighbouring Congo. Rwanda is rated 158th in Human Development and had a GDP of $240 in 2005. Life expectancy is 46 for females and 42 for males. Subsistence agriculture is widespread and industrial development is weak.
